Who Does Your Printing?

All business houses need more or less printed matter, all of which is within the possibilities of the local printer. Yet how prone many are to pass up the home printer and let the orders go to city offices which have no interest whatever in rural communities except to get printing orders and the cash to pay for them. Business men, remember that the home paper is constantly promoting the interests of the home community and you owe it to yourself and your local paper to back-up these efforts by at least having your printed matter done locally.

LITTLE ITEMS OF LOCAL INTEREST

Mr. and Mrs. D. Folger and Mrs. Shaw of Calgary were visiting with Miss Letta Gordon this week.

Mrs. A.A. McCaskle and daughter and Mrs. W. Williams of Calgary were visiting with their cousin, Mrs. Car Moorehouse last week, and returned to the City on Saturday.

The attention of our readers is called to the announcement in our advertising columns of the O.C. Arnold Co. Ltd., dealers in bonds and investment securities. Mr. King of that firm is visiting in town this week, accompanied by his wife and children. Mrs. King being a sister of Mrs. Braisher. Mr. King has become quite well known among business men of Carbon and we learn that it is his intention to make the acquaintance of the farmers during the next few weeks.

It is worth while adding that there are few better things that they can do than put a little money aside in first mortgage gold bonds.

Miss McClelland of Calgary, will be open for piano lessons at the Carbon Hotel every Monday and Tuesday.

A general meeting of the Carbon Chess Club will be held at Mr. English's office on Thursday evening, September 17th, at 8 P. M. for the purpose of organizing for the season.

Mrs. Munro of Vulcan, arrived last Thursday and spent a few days visiting with Mrs. A. Hay. She returned to Vulcan on Monday.

Wm. Rouleau of Port Alberni, B. C. arrived on Tuesday and is spending a few days visiting with his brother here.

The final of the Carbon Tennis Club mens doubles was played off last week and resulted in a win for C. H. Nash and H. Wilson who defeated J. M. McDonald and H. Edwards 6 to 3 and 6 to 0 and won the prize of $10.00 given by P. Edwards of the Carbon Hotel. The second prize given by G. Peter going to Mr. Macdonald and Mr. H. Edwards.

The Carbon Tennis Club have received an invitation from Rosebud Tennis Club to visit them on Sunday next and play a series of games. Quite a number expect to make the trip.

Paul Hotson, Jeweler and Optometrist, Acme, has complete eye testing apparatus here every Thursday. Entrance through Regal Gas office. Mr. Hotson is an expert in his line.

C. H. Bothamley, jeweler, will be at Peters Store every Thursday with an up-to-date stock of Diamonds, Watches, Jewelry, etc. First class repair work done while here. Leave repairs at Peters store.

CATASTROPHE IMMINENT

Of all the dam trouble read about in recent years the excitement now on in India leads the procession. It appears that a lake about nine miles long has been formed up in the mountains by the formation of a great dam across a deep valley for a period of years. Now the pressure, heat and other causes appear to be weakening the obstruction and a break is feared. The natives below are in a very nervous state although government authorities are taking every means to save sample warning. In the absence of telephone, radio, etc., large bon fires will be set on fire and other warning given. Of false alarm already given has started a scramble for high spots and another will bring a stampede second only to the Carbon Annual. This lake is 17000 feet above sea level and the water therefore due for a long drop if the dam breaks.

THE HUNTERS' PREDICAMENT

Shooting season opened last Saturday and a number of hunters intended to take in the first of the season as full fledged sportsmen, but lo, and behold, on Friday the 14th these true abiders by the law applied to the local game warden for a license, only to be informed that there were only three licenses to be had in Carbon and these had already been issued. What were the hunters to do? One is not supposed to hunt without a license.

Just what those hunters did in the way of procuring a license is not known but unless they secured such a license from a game warden in another district they were certainly out of luck if they intended to live up to the sporting law in all respects.

In speaking about the North West Historical Society on their new book, the following has been clipped from the A.E.K. column in The Drumheller Mail.

The pioneer spirit always appeals to my romantic and adventurous nature. It is because I have this spirit, with reservations, that I found much to interest me in the story "The Story of the Press" compiled by the Canadian North West Historical Society whose headquarters are at Battleford, Sask.

In every small town newspaper office there are times when the whole staff, from the publisher to printers' devil, dreams of the day when the populace will demand and receive a full fledged daily sheet featuring Associated and Canadian press despatches. Matt and Jeff, Dr. Frank Cranes Flathead and a four page colored section on Saturdays—and then the boss wakes up and wants to know why all the people don't advertise more and raise their subscriptions and stop criticizing—we are doing our best aren't we?—and then the press breaks down just when the forms are put to bed and someone has left the R out of Furniture in one of the ads and the whole staff gets fired and hired again—and just then a miracle happens.

The machinery moves and the blink newsprint whirles round the cylinder black on white—the news of the week intimate, local news. The pressman passes his fingers carefully over the printed page. The bed of the press trundles backward and forward with resounding swishes and clangs. One

BOARD OF TRADE HOLDS MEETING

A joint meeting of the sponsors of Chautauqua and the Carbon Board of Trade was held in the Municipal hall last Monday night and a fair crowd turned out.

The Chautauqua sponsors discussed the subject of building jacks for the seats next year and a committee was formed to call for tenders and have the jacks built this winter.

At the Board of Trade meeting the minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted. A discussion took place on the petitioning the school board for an additional teacher for the Carbon school. A discussion was also in order on the forming of a school at the mines, but nothing definite was done on either of these issues.

The secretary reported that he had been in communication with Mr. A.B. Claypool, M.L.A. and that he would be willing to speak at a luncheon of the Carbon Board of Trade the first Monday in October, providing present weather prevailed and harvest was completed.

A letter was read from the Automobile Association asking that the Carbon Club to affiliate with them, this Association to cover insurance, etc. The matter was left over for further discussion.

The matter of the changing of the telephones to the Carbon exchange by again discussed and it was agreed that some action should be taken in this matter as it meant a great deal to the business of Carbon.

Harvest is in full swing in the Carbon district and with the usual fine weather prevailing many of the crops have already been threshed. The new trucks are busy hauling the grain to the elevators and this year with the combines and trucks practically all of the new crop will be threshed and hauled to market before the winter sets in.

copy is reverently placed in the office archives for the benefit of historians.

From such archives The North West Historical Society have gathered their data for "The Story of The Press."

Christianity's Next Task

The signing of (1), the Treaty of Versailles in which is incorporated the covenant of the League of Nations; (2), the naval treaties at Washington; and (3), the Kellogg anti-war declaration recently at Paris, were all hailed by press, pulpit and public as important milestones along the road to permanent world peace and a better understanding among the races of the earth. Special services were held in churches to mark some of not all of these events, while thousands of columns of editorial matter were printed lauding these notable efforts to put an end to racial animosities. And every word written or spoken in praise and support of these great peace movements was fully deserved.

But, notes the Literary Digest, the new programme for world-wide spiritual co-operation adopted by the International Missionary Council at its last meeting in Jerusalem may be considered as revolutionary in the ecclesiastical world as the above named three events are in the political world. All look to the promotion of peace, but the Jerusalem Conference, perhaps, probed deeper into the problems which agitate the world and array nation against nation, race against race, and, concludes the Literary Digest, while little publicity has been given to the deliberations and conclusions of the Conference held on the Mount of Olives, no bells rung or paeans of praise offered up, yet so much was done that posterity may rank Jerusalem with Geneva, Washington and Paris in the onward march of mankind toward international amity and the ending of racial hatred.

Among the subjects discussed on the sacred mount outside the Holy City were the race problem, the rights of minorities, the protection of women and children in industry, relations between strong and weak nations, the land question, intellectual and spiritual co-operation, relations between church and state, and various other phases of world peace. Specialists on race, industry, and international relations from the minorities section of the League of Nations and the Universities of London, Harvard and Columbia, among other institutions, were present to contribute technical knowledge as these problems were attacked.

And with what result? Following lengthy and searching study of conditions as they now exist in countries all over the world, and the relation and duty of the Christian church thereto, this International Missionary Conference meeting at Jerusalem found that "the Church has not firmly and effectively set its face against race hatred, race envy, race contempt, or against racial, national and social pride, or against the lust for wealth and exploitation of the poor or weak."

It was evident right at the beginning of the Conference that the old attitude of superiority of the West over the East, regarding of Nordic civilization and the Christian religions as one and the same, was not acceptable. The idea of race superiority was not admitted for a moment, and the Conference indicated its belief that the basis of race prejudice is economic. In lands where races live side by side, participation by all in racial intermingling for social, cultural, and religious fellowship was declared to be the natural expression of Christianity, and was welcomed as a step toward world-wide understanding.

Who is there will deny that such belief and conclusions are in line with the teachings and spirit of the Founder of Christianity?

And does there not emanate from this Conference a special message for the people of Canada, and especially for the people of Western Canada? Of late there have been unfortunate revivals of ancient campaigns by certain classes of our people against other classes based solely on questions of race and creed. Most unfortunate of all is the fact that many of the leaders in these campaigns, which are a denial of Christ's whole life and teaching, are recognized leaders in the Christian church.

It is the fond hope and dearest ambition of many thousands of forward-looking, patriotic Canadians that this young Dominion reaching out in its new nationhood will become a power for good in the world; that its greatness will be found not alone in its wealth of natural resources, its far-reaching trade and commerce, its cultural attainments, but in those spiritual attainments and contributions to all mankind which, in the final analysis, are the true measures by which to estimate the greatness of any people or nation.

Good Job For Him

He was the slowest boy on earth, and finally he was apprenticed to a naturalist. He was so slow it took him an hour to feed the canary, two to stick pins through four butterflies, and after taking all afternoon to change the goldfishes' water, he asked what else he could do.

"Well," said his master, "you might take the tortoise for a run!"

When Pain Comes

What many people call indigestion very often means excess acid in the stomach. The stomach nerves have been over-stimulated, and food sours. The corrective is an alkali, which neutralizes acids instantly. And the best alkali known to medical science is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention. One spoonful of this harmless, tasteless alkali in water will neutralize instantly many times as much acid, and the symptoms disappear at once. You will never use crude methods when once you learn the efficiency of this. Go get a small bottle to try.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.

Tourist Trade Increasing

Figures For 1928 Will No Doubt Show Gain Over Last Year

While it was estimated that American tourists spent $200,000,000 in Canada last year, there is no doubt but that figures for 1928 will show fresh gains, stated R. K. Odell, assistant director of the natural resources intelligence service of the department of interior, who was in Edmonton in connection with affairs of his department.

Development of the tourist trade is of extreme importance to Canada and its value is fully recognized, said Mr. Odell. In carrying on its work, the federal branch is co-operating with the provincial governments and other local bodies.

ARE YOU RUN-DOWN?

All That Is Needed Is a Tonic To Build Up the Blood.

There are many people who have been semi-invalids so long that they accept their condition as a life burden. They have endured nervousness, broken sleep and a generally run-down feeling so long that they have given up hope of again enjoying good health. In most of these cases a well chosen diet, fresh air and a tonic to build up the blood would do wonders. And as a blood-building tonic no other medicine can compare with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. There is scarcely a spot in Canada where you will not find some formerly ailing person who has found new health through the use of this medicine. The experience of Mrs. Thomas Ahearn, St. Malo, Que., bears out these statements. She says: "I have the greatest reason to be thankful for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me. I was in a very weak and run-down condition. Frequently I would faint and my legs would swell badly. It was almost impossible to do any housework. It seemed as if my blood had turned to water. In this weak and despondent condition I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. A few boxes proved that they were helping me, but I continued taking the pills until I had used a dozen boxes, by which time I found myself a completely restored woman, able to do my work without fatigue, a better appetite and a sense of cheerfulness, where before I had been despondent. For all this, thanks to the health-giving qualities of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

If you are feeling run-down, give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial and new health will be yours. You can get the pills from any medicine dealer, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Chicago Churches

Expenditure Of Twenty-Five Million Dollars On New Church Buildings Last Year

The Frenchman who remarked that the English must be an extraordinary dirty race, as they were always bathing, would probably say that Chicago's expenditure of $25,000,000 on new church buildings last year proved it a wicked city. This interpretation of its outlay on houses of worship would be as illogical as it would be ungenerous. A modern city does not have to be more than ordinarily ungodly to realize that the church stands for the highest ideals in home and State; that it is a rock upon which doubt, selfishness and greed eventually wear themselves out. William Hale Thompson and "Scarface" Al Capone to the contrary notwithstanding, Chicago probably stands in no greater need of churches than do some other American cities. The realization of its need in this respect is to Chicago's credit; and if, after having built the churches, Chicagoans fill them they will reap rich dividends in the finer things of life.—Detroit Free Press.

Prosperity In Central B.C.

D. D. Munro, provincial government land settlement agent, Smithers, reports that crop prospects for Central British Columbia this year are very good. He states that since the erection and operation of the grain elevator at Prince Rupert, a number of farmers are going in for grain-growing with splendid results. He also says that the increase in mining is having a very beneficial effect, and he is enthusiastic with respect to the future prospects of that territory.

Free Grant Homesteads

Unusual Activity Seen In Taking Up Land In Western Canada This Year

Official records show that during the first seven months of this year, a total of 6,734 free grant homesteads and 391 soldier grants were taken up in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia, representing 1,140,000 acres. The record for the corresponding period of 1927 was 3,675 homesteads and 288 soldier grants, representing 634,000 acres. In the seven months this year soldier grants only numbered 391 and last year 288. The entries in the respective provinces this year were as follows: Manitoba, 329; Saskatchewan, 2,186; Alberta, 4,156; British Columbia, 454.

It is usually safe to say that when a child is pale, sickly, peevish and restless, the cause is worms. These parasites range the stomach and intestines, causing serious disorders of the digestion and preventing the infant from deriving sustenance from food. Miller's worm Powders, by destroying the worms, correct these faults of the digestion and serve to restore the organs to healthy action.

Tourists Should Be Informed

As the tourist reaches our country he should be given a card containing full particulars in regard to highway regulations, the purchase and consumption of liquor and in reference to all other matters with which he should be familiar, while he is a guest of this province. It is a hardship to punish a visitor for transgressing a law in regard to which he has not been informed, a difficulty which would be completely overcome by the introduction of some such plan as this.

A WONDERFUL TRIBUTE

Baby's Own Tablets Declared To Be Worth Their Weight In Gold

A mother has only to use Baby's Own Tablets once to be convinced that nothing else can equal them in banishing the ills of her little ones. Once used, always used, as long as there are small children in the home—that is the tribute thousands of mothers pay the Tablets.

Among the many, many mothers who are anxious to tell of their experience with Baby's Own Tablets is Mrs. Griffith, of East Hamilton, Ont., who writes: "Shortly after coming to Canada I began giving the Tablets to my baby boy who was then six weeks old. The result was so pleasing that since that time I have always kept the Tablets in the house. I have two children now and both of them are the picture of health. Baby's Own Tablets are the only medicine they have ever had and I really believe the Tablets to be worth their weight in gold."

Baby's Own Tablets are free from all injurious drugs and can be given to the youngest babe with absolute safety. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Farmers' Marketing Tour

Canadian National Railways' Tour
To Great Britain and Denmark, 1928

Historically speaking the Glasgow Town Hall is a comparatively recent building in the Venetian Renaissance style, and the hall in which we were entertained is lofty, airy and in its sheer spaciousness magnificent. Three beautiful wall paintings command attention, one depicting the legend of King Roderick and St. Mungo, the representation of which is still part of the City's coat of arms; a second a Glasgow scene of the Middle Ages, and it was interesting to note that in this scene was portrayed a Clydesdale, although the period covered is about 1500. The third is the Lusitania on the stocks of the Clyde before her completion. For all its comparative modernity, the banquet hall can boast a history. Queen Victoria, King Edward, Queen Alexandra, King George, Queen Mary, and the Prince of Wales have dined in it. Every Prime Minister of Great Britain since 1889 has been the guest of the City there; and in July, 1914, three weeks before the war, the German burgomasters dined there after visiting the shipping centres of England and Scotland. Only two toasts were honored, "The King" and "The Kaiser," and the German and British National Anthems were sung. Soon after the burgomasters were hurrying home, their trip cut short by the outbreak of the Great War.

Sir David Mason and the Corporation entertained us in characteristic Scottish style. The haggis was piped in to the tune of "Happy We've Been a' the Gither" by the City of Glasgow Police Band, at the end of which ceremony the chairman proffered Pipe Major Gray the time-honored refreshment, acknowledgement by the Pipe Major with the traditional response, "Thanks and a health to you" spoken in Gaelic.

A little secret history attaches to the fine new leopard skin which was worn by the Pipe Major for the first time and in our honor. It appeared that circumstances had compelled the Corporation to wield the economy axe, and in doing so, they had decided to cut out one pair of trousers from the annual outfit of uniformed city officers. It was proposed to spend twenty guineas on a leopard skin for the Pipe Major, but this would hardly have done in view of the incident of the trousers. Happily, however, the difficulty was overcome by a public-spirited citizen who presented the City with a properly mounted skin.

There were two musical programs. Gaelic airs, marches, strathspeys and reels by the pipe band and selections by the City of Glasgow Police Orchestra who honored us by playing Canadian songs and dances. Glasgow indeed entertained us royally.

We spent our afternoon watching a football match as guests of the Corporation and thoroughly enjoyed the experience.

The European part of our official programme was now ended, but there was one unscheduled event for which the party was responsible. We had almost completed a wonderful tour. We had seen more in thirty-two days than perhaps any party of the same size had ever seen. Doors, for which money was no key, had been thrown open to us. Privileges jealously guarded and keenly sought had been freely accorded to the Canadian Farmers' Party, and the hearts of both high and low had been opened as well as doors. Throughout we had been cared for with something more than efficiency by those who had charge of us—the officials of the Canadian National and of the Globe Travel Bureau had become our friends. We would not part without returning thanks and expressing our esteem. So we hailed Mr. Weir, the organizer of the tour in Europe, Mr. Groff, organizer in Canada, and Mr. Strachan, agricultural representative for the Canadian National Railways in Winnipeg, before a mock tribunal, apparently to try them for their sins, but in reality to present the first two with a silver salver suitably inscribed, and Mr. Strachan with a case of pipes. Mr. W. A. Wilson, of Canada House, who had been guide, philosopher and friend on so many occasions; Mr. John L. Harvey, Mr. Turnham, and Mr. Whitby, of the Globe Travel Bureau, and the four trusty drivers, who had driven us and our baggage so many hundreds of miles in perfect safety were likewise brought before the "judge" (Mr. Arkell). Mr. Wilson, to receive a letter of thanks from the party, Mr. Harvey an illuminated testimonial, his colleagues each a letter of appreciation supplemented by a money gift.

When we had responded the "judge" himself was placed in the dock and was presented with a letter and a gold watch engraved with an inscription: the party's tribute to the manner in which he had carried out the duties of the position as leader to which we had elected him. Mr. Arkell had responded to the speeches of great men on great occasions, but never had he found his task of replying so difficult as he did this night, so overcome was he with the surprise we had secretly prepared.

These were not all we thanked. There was Mr. Dan Johnson, European Colonization Manager for the Canadian National Railways; "Brownie" (Mr. E. W. Brown), Mr.

Explanations and Comments

Paul had been asked in a letter from the Corinthian Church whether or not one might eat meat which had first been offered to idols. The letter probably suggested that, as an idol was not a real god, it did not matter if the food had been offered to it. The writers doubtless wished to be known as "the party which stood for liberty of conscience, and probably for the Pauline axiom, 'All things are lawful to me.' Paul's answer follows in this eighth chapter.

Moffatt's version of Paul's words makes them so clear that explanations are unnecessary:

With regard to food that has been offered to idols. Here, of course, "we all possess knowledge!" Knowledge puffs up, love builds up. Whoever imagines he has attained to some degree of knowledge, does not possess the true knowledge yet; but if anyone loves God, he is known of Him. Well, then, with regard to food that has been offered to idols, I am quite aware that "there is no such thing as an idol in the world," and that "there is only the one God." (So-called gods there may be, in heaven or on earth—as indeed there are plenty of them, both gods and "lords"—but for us there is one God, the Father, from whom all comes, and for whom we exist.) But remember, it is not everyone who has this "knowledge." Some who have hitherto been accustomed to idols eat the food as food which has been really offered to an idol, and so their weaker conscience is contaminated. Now mere food will not bring us any nearer to God; if we abstain we do not lose anything, and if we eat we do not gain anything. But see that the exercise of your right does not prove any stumbling block to the weak. Suppose anyone sees you, a person of enlightened mind, reclining at meat inside an idol's temple; will that really "fortify his weak conscience?" Will it not embolden him to violate his scruples of conscience by eating food that has been offered to idols? He is ruined, this weak man, ruined by your "enlightened mind," this brother for whose sake Christ died! By sinning against the brotherhood in this way and wounding their weaker conscience, you are sinning against Christ. Therefore, if food is any hindrance to my brother's welfare, sooner than injure him I will never eat flesh as long as I live, never!

Forest Fire Costs

Canada's bill for forest fire losses amounts to more than $1.50 a week for every man, woman, and child of the population. Federal and Provincial Governments, are putting forth efforts to reduce and eventually wipe out this heavy loss.

"Good-bye old pal," Donald whispered, his arms about the collie's shaggy neck. The dog turned slowly and unwillingly toward the house.

In the meantime, within the house, John McLean and his wife were discussing the possible result of the father's seeming severity.

"Donald is a great trial to us now, John," said the mother, "but we must not forget, the happiness he has brought us in the past." She gazed long and lovingly at a photograph of her son as a child; then, with head bowed, her lips moved in silent prayer.

Upon his arrival at the wharf Donald found his baggage, destroyed the pass he had been in the habit of using, as his father was owner of the steamboat line, and bought a ticket to Bangor.

Reaching Bangor, he chose less expensive quarters than was his custom, locating at the Penobscot, on Exchange Street. In no mood for sleep, he decided to take a stroll. Outside an all-night restaurant was a long string of cars, and from within came the sound of happy laughter.

A feeling of loneliness, coupled with a slight hunger induced him to enter. A big man sitting at the counter, attacking vigorously a T-bone steak, was the centre of interest, as evidenced by the cluster of taxi-drivers and other night-lunchers about him. He wore a wide-brimmed hat, high leather boots, corduroy trousers, a blue flannel shirt, and a red-mackinaw coat hung on the wall behind him. Blond, sun-washed hair stood up from his head aggressively, and his steely blue eyes were set in a face tanned a brick red.

"Yes, sir," spoke the blond giant between mouthfuls, "she's a he-man's country, she is. None of your bum chow that I used to get here in these Eastern loggin' camps, sow-belly and beans three times a day, and work-in' for forty dollars a month from daylight until dark. No, sree! Me for the Coast with its four bucks a day. And talk about grub! Say, there ain't any hotel that puts up better scoffins than we get in the loggin' camps in good old B.C."

He looked around at his audience and, convinced that they were interested, he continued: "Yes, sir! British Columbia for mine. Say! What'd you think of three fir logs that makes a carload? Of cedars ten feet through? Of alders that you can't git your arms round? Some different than them toothpicks you got out there," jerking his thumb contemptuously toward the Penobscot River. "And minerals," he went on, "the mountains are filled with 'em—miles and miles that ain't never bin prospected. Prospectors comin' in every day with new strides. And talk about fish! I seen the fish so thick they choked the rivers; you could darn near walk on their backs. That's the country, fellers. That's the place for men with git-up-and-git." He finished his repast with a gulp of coffee, fished a sack of tobacco and brown paper from his pocket, and rolled a cigarette. "A brand new country," he ran on, his eyes shining with enthusiasm, "that ain't half explored yet, and richer 'n a pail of cream. How much do I owe you, boy?" he asked as he drew out a wad of banknotes, peeled a bill from the outside of the fat roll and threw it carelessly on the counter.

"Keep the change," he said with a lordly air, then swaggered through the door. Several of the taxi-drivers followed, loudly importuning him to ride.

Donald finished his lunch and sat for a time smoking.

"That guy was a nut to flash his poke in front of that gang," observed the waiter, "Guess he's big enough to take care of himself," he added.

As Donald stepped out of the restaurant he saw the big man across the street with four of his former audience. From the shadow of a doorway he saw the party enter a ramshackle building, after hearing one of them promise to get the Westerner a drink in spite of prohibition. Donald decided to walk by the place, and was startled by the sound of crashing glass and indications of a struggle.

"You will, will you?" he heard the unmistakable voice of the big Westerner.

With a bound Donald was at the door. He found the Westerner badly battered, but holding three men at bay. The fourth lay in a crumpled heap in the corner.

Only one of the men noticed Donald's entrance. He was a big, burly brute with the swarthy features of the Southern European, and he came straight for the intruder, crouching low. Donald's left hand caught him on the eye, and as his head flew back Donald crossed viciously with his right. The blow landed with an impact that sounded like a cleaver sinking into a meat block, and the man dropped as though shot.

A rat-faced man, standing near a side door with a bottle in his hand, shouted a warning as Donald sprang to the Westerner's assistance. Both men turned their heads. The ham-like fist of the big blond giant struck the larger of the two men such a terrific blow on the side of the head that the recipient whirled completely around and sank dazedly to the floor.

"Duck!" yelled Donald, as he saw the little man's arm go back. The Westerner dropped, and not a second too soon. The bottle whizzed over his head, bringing a shower of plaster from the wall where it struck. With a curse the big man turned, but the little bottle-thrower had disappeared through the side door. The remaining thug, a tall, cadaverous looking youth, took one wild look round, then bolted through the front door.

The Westerner, gasping and rather pale, seized Donald's hand in his huge paw. "Pardner, you saved me from a hell of a lickin'! Bout two minutes more and . . ."

"Grab your coat and hat and we'll get out of here before the police come," interrupted Donald.

They went through the alley to Hammond Street, then down Exchange Street.

"Better come up to my room and have those cuts attended to," suggested Donald.

The Westerner touched gingerly the rapidly swelling lump over his ear. "You know," he observed, "those fellers never intended to start a rough-house. The little dip was pretty slick, but I caught him with his hand in my pocket, and when they saw that they had a fight in their hands, they tried to lay me out with a billy. Should have seen the funny look on that little rat's face when he lammed me with that loaded stick and I didn't go down. Guess this old bean of mine must run pretty heavy to bone," he finished with a chuckle. He looked at Donald curiously. "You sure handed it to that big dago quick. How did you horn in on the row anyhow?"

Donald told of being in the lunch-room when he had displayed his money, and of the waiter's subsequent remarks.

"Huh!" snorted the big man disgustedly, "guess I need a guard-deen." With the assistance of the obliging night-clerk, who furnished antiseptic and court plaster, they patched the hurts of the much-bruised Westerner.

When the clerk left the room the big man turned to Donald. "My name's Jack Gillis. What's yours?"

"Donald McLean."

"Damn good name," he averred, looking Donald over critically.

"I bin visitin' my old home in Nova Scotia," he ran on. "Come down here to visit my sister. I'm gittin' homesick for the Pacific Slope, and I'm goin' to hit for B.C. tomorrow mornin'."

"I'm on my way to Vancouver," said Donald.

The effect of this statement on Gillis was electric. "Do you belong in B.C.?" he questioned excitedly.

Donald told him how his glowing description of that land of promise had induced him to go West, and that this would be his first visit to the Coast.

"Well," observed Gillis, "if I've been the means of addin' a man like you to the population of B.C., then Jack Gillis has done some good."

"That's a real compliment," smiled Donald.

"I'm goin' on the mornin' train," remarked Gillis. "I'd like to have you travel with me."

Donald nodded.

Teeth and Health

Issued By The Canadian Dental Hygiene Council and Published By The Saskatchewan Dental Society

THE WISDOM TOOTH

Otherwise the third molar, the word "Wisdom" being of no real significance excepting as it relates to the period of eruption which is at the approach of adult age.

Perhaps it has been your good fortune not to have had this tooth erupt, for in truth, it is often a trouble bearer; it is the dental "degenerate"—generally stunted in size, but frequently absent altogether—but why missing?

This the gradual lessening of the function of mastication and the reduction of the force of jaw movement, due to the substitution of softer and less gritty foods by civilized man, has led to a marked degeneracy of the dental mechanism.

So that, through economy of growth, due to disease, the tooth germ may fail to develop; or, developing, the jaws are so greatly contracted (through disease), that frequently there is lack of space for it to erupt into position—a condition analogous to that of the eyeless fish of the Mammoth Cave—Nature cutting off that which goes unused.

Just a word more: Occasionally the unnatural retention of this tooth in the jaw—so-called "impaction," leads to serious disturbances, neuralgic pains, local infection, or constitutional ills. So when your physician, finding no specific cause for your general ill health, orders that "impacted" wisdom removed, you will better understand the reason.

But don't worry should the wisdom teeth not erupt—the chances are that you have been spared trouble.

Chief Buffalo Child Long Lance

Talented Western Canadian Is Author Of New Book, Called "Long Lance"

A man of magnificent appearance came to the office of Cosmopolitan Book Corporation last year and asked questions on the technique of writing a book. He was not seen around the Cosmopolitan offices again for about a year. Then he returned with a complete manuscript, left it silently, and was gone again.

The next day the manuscript was circulating around the office, page by page, and being avidly read by half a dozen people at once.

The author was Buffalo Child Long Lance, a chief of the Blood Band of Blackfoot Indians. He had written how as a boy he suffered the tortures of training as a warrior and was educated in the teachings of medicine-men and wrinkled old braves. He had told the stories of a boyhood on horseback, of buffalo-hunting, bloody fighting, awesome "medicine," of capturing wild horses, of war and peace, sun dances and happy feasts.

Now a college graduate and an appointee by President Wilson to West Point; a hero of the World War, and a most charming personality, Chief Long Lance turned up as a literary man of a high order.

The book was a rare contribution to Americana. The publishers prevailed on him to let the book be called "Long Lance."

Chief Buffalo Child Long Lance is a most extraordinary personality. More than thirty years ago he was born an ordinary Indian baby on the western plains in what is now Alberta. To tell of his boyhood before the Blackfoot Indians signed a treaty and went to the reservation would take the edge off his amazing book.

Are You Ready

When your Children Cry for It

Baby has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner done than Baby is soothed; relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug; Castoria is vegetable. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain you cannot put away. And it's always ready for the crueler pangs of colic, or constipation, or diarrhea; effective, too, for older children. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

Largest Passenger Engine in British Empire

When the largest passenger locomotive in the British Empire emerged from Angus Shops under her own steam, close to eight thousand employees, most of whom had contributed something to her creation, stopped to cheer as, her throttle gently opened for the first time, she moved slowly forward. She is a triumph of Canadian design and engineering craftsmanship; a graceful mechanism nearly one hundred feet long, with a tractive effort of 60,800 pounds, equal to 3,685 horse power.

The new K-1-A Class locomotive has been built from designs originated in the motive power department of the Canadian Pacific Railway in the company's own shops by its own employees. Two of these engines have been constructed and they will first be operated on the Montreal-Toronto run.

Although its weight, 424,000 pounds, is greater than that of any other passenger engine in Canada, the extensive use of Canadian nickel steel parts has reduced it to a minimum, and the high ratio of tractive power to weight is a notable feature of the new engine. Other features are a one-piece cast steel locomotive bed; a tender with a water bottom underframe; boiler pressure of 275 pounds, the highest of any locomotive in Canada; and a length of engine and tender of 97 feet 5 inches. There are eight pairs of wheels, a four-wheel leading truck, eight drivers, and a four-wheel trailing truck. The wheels have a diameter of 75 inches and the cast nickel steel cylinders are 25½ inches by 30 inches. The coal capacity is 18½ tons, and water capacity 12,000 gallons. A mechanical stoker considerably lightens the duties of the fireman.

The new design aimed at largely increased power, reduction of weight and elimination of parts. The result has shown that Canadian technical skill and workmanship is equal to the task of putting a fully equipped engine of the best type under its own power, and that the Canadian Pacific Angus shops, the second largest on the continent, are capable of vying successfully with recognized engine building plants anywhere in the world.

Throwing a Lot of Light on a Dark Continent.
